The RD End Plate.

OZ Roll™ is proud to introduce the all-new RD end plates, designed specifically for our new Elipso™ shutter system. The RD end plate features some quite unique design points along with other tried tested and proven concepts.

One of the most noticeable features is the removable guide leg. OZ Roll™ has used this system very successfully over the past years on the Domino type box end plates. The removable leg provides for a very strong connection to the guide while allowing for convenient and safe transport of the assembled shutter. Our studies have proven that the box leg is the main cause of damage in the transportation of assembled shutters.

The large cut out at the base of the back of the RD 360 end plate allows for the fitting of the unique Elipso™ box end insert (please see information bulletin 000 for details). The upper cut out allows for a standard type reverse entry roller.

The RD 360 end plate has two locating pins and one fixing hole that allow for secure and positive fixing of the safety plate on motorised shutters. The safety plate is secured with only one pop rivet, which provides an enclosed area for all cabling therefore creating a safe motorised shutter.

The small notch in the front of the end plate flange allows for convenient setting of the motor limits even while the safety plate is fitted. The two centre marks around the stub axle are positioned perfectly for mounting the motor directly to the end plate.

The table below details the accurate size of the Elipso end plates that is required for the effective installation of any roller shutter.
